

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Sweet Elder.

Beside the crumbling garden wall,
Beneath the towering maple trees,
Along the hedge, where apples fall,
And yellow bells hang from the beech,
I close my eyes and climb
In summer time,
And yield a store of rich perfume
For all who love sweet elder bloom.

I spring up where the cattle roam,
And make the desert places green;
Where corn and clover find a home
I fill the furrows in between.
My feet are strong,
My runners long,
And though I seem a slender reed,
No aid nor comfort do I need.

I love the atmosphere of June,
The fields when they are fully dressed;
The birds that sing the sweetest tune,
Come unto me to find a nest;
And little girls
With flowing curls
Come hither in the heated hours
And play within my shaded bowers.

When autumn comes with cooling winds,
And gives the hills a richer glow,
My day of recompense begins—
My arms with fruitage overflows;
And all the while
I fondly smile,
For he that taketh ought from me
Receives an offering rich and free.

And when I feel the winter snows,
I will not hide myself and weep;
But I will fondly dream of those
Who something of my memory keep.
My heart will yearn
For the return
Of faces that I oft have seen,
When skies were bright and fields were green.

Schwartz—Granger.

The marriage of Miss Madeline Granger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Granger, to Mr. Charles David Schwartz, son of Mr. Jacob Schwartz, was celebrated at 6 P. M. Thursday, July 20th, in St. Patrick's Church, the Rev. Father McKeefrey being the celebrant.

The church was handsomely decorated. Miss Isabel Davis, cousin of the bride, maid of honor, and Mr. John Schwartz, the groom's brother, was the best man. Messrs. Charles Houchins, P. P. Ford, G. Langley and H. Kaufman were the ushers.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her away. She was beautifully gowned in white liberty silk. Her veil was held with orange blossoms, and she carried a spray of white roses.

The maid of honor wore green silk mull, a white lace hat, and had a bouquet of white carnations.

A reception was given after the ceremony in the home of the bride, No. 714 North Twenty-third Street. Wedding gifts were profuse and beautiful. Among the wedding guests from a distance were Miss Margaretta Barnett, of Baltimore; Miss Mary Stephens, aunt of the bride; Miss Minnie Stephens, the bride's cousin, and Miss Emma Traynor, of Norfolk, Va.

To Erect Monument.

The Portsmouth Artillery Monument Association was organized at a meeting held in Stonewall Camp headquarters Tuesday evening. Captain J. H. Thompson was elected president of the association; Mr. M. W. Allen, treasurer, and Mr. William B. Lynch, secretary. The Portsmouth Star, in referring to the purpose of the organization, says:

"The object of this association is to raise funds in order to erect a monument to the Portsmouth Artillery, the famous battery organized prior to 1812, and which participated in the battle of Craney Island, under the command of Captain Arthur Emmerson. The battery had a continuous existence up to the Civil War, and was ordered into service by John Letcher, the war Governor of this State, on April 20, 1862, with forty men on its rolls. In a short time, however, its number had been increased to over one hundred men."

At Hottel's Creek the battery became informally known as Grimes's Battery, and it is by that name that it is generally known. The captains of the battery were Captain Cary L. Grimes, who was succeeded by Lieutenant John H. Thompson, the present president of the monument association.

SONG.

By P. W. LORING.

Frederick Wadsworth Loring was born in Boston in 1848, and died in Arizona in 1911. He was graduated from Harvard in 1870. As a magazine correspondent he went to Arizona, where he was killed by Indians. He wrote "Two College Friends," a novel, and "The Boston Dip and Other Verses." The following was first published in the Harvard Advocate in 1888.

WHEN visions of her face come o'er me,
Of her sweet face so far away,
I say what lovers said before me,
What lovers will forever say:
That flowers bloom sweeter for her being,
That birds sing sweeter for her seeing,
That grass is greener, skies more blue,
That all things take a richer hue.
Lovers have said these things before:
Lovers will say them evermore.

O, sweet young love, that in all ages
Bears ever one eternal form!
With lasting youth your oldest partner
Glow ever, ever fresh and warm.
O dear old story ever young!
Poets have painted, artists sung:
Sure, naught in life is half so sweet:
Death cannot make you incomplete.
Lovers have said these things before:
Lovers will say them evermore.

TRYING TO SETTLE ZIEGLER CONTEST

$2,000,000 Offered to Widow in Lieu of Annuity and Real Estate.

HOPES WERE DISAPPOINTED

Own Son of Baking Powder Man's Wife Cut Off With Pittance.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NEW YORK, July 20.—A story of the vagaries of fortune is revealed by the suit of Mrs. William Ziegler to break the will of the "Baking Powder King," which left $3,000,000 to an adopted son only fourteen.

Mrs. Ziegler's only child, a son by a former husband named Gamble, whom she had long hoped would be raised to riches by her union with Ziegler, was cut off with a pittance of $2,400 a year. The widow herself was cut off with an annuity of $50,000 a year and two houses, one at No. 624 Fifth Avenue, this city; the other at Noroton, Conn.

Negotiations for a compromise of Mrs. Ziegler's suit have been begun. It was said yesterday in Brooklyn that a settlement was to be striven for within a week, in order to prevent sensational disclosures.

Widow Offered $2,000,000.

A close friend of the widow said yesterday:

"We are offered by the executors $2,000,000 in lieu of the annuity and the life interest in the real estate. They have capitalized this total income of $50,000 a year and have figured out the widow's expectation of life on an insurance table. They tell us her interest is worth $2,000,000 in cash."

Friends of the widow say Ziegler's personality was worth $2,000,000. Of this her third would have been not less than $500,000.

Under a previous will made by Ziegler it is alleged the widow and her son would have inherited at least $100,000. In the will which the widow seeks to break is a clause, the language of which is such as to raise a question as to the right of the widow to have the use of the town and country houses unless the adopted son lives with her.

Says She Helped Him Make Money.

It was denied yesterday by one close to the widow that her suit was in any sense "friendly." It would be pushed, it was said, until the widow got what she believes to be her fair share of the estate. Under the will she cannot lose any part of the estate to her own son, except what money she may save out of her annuity.

Ziegler, they say, made the bulk of his vast fortune after he married Mrs. Gamble. She is said to have advised him in many of his ventures. His closest friend said yesterday:

"Ziegler during the last twenty years of his life was so busy making money he did not stop to realize he was without a natural heir."

The widow and the adopted son and heir are living at the country place on Great Island, which has already cost $3,000,000.

RETURN OLD FLAGS.

Fraternal Letter Received From a Federal Officer.

Governor Montague has received the following self-explanatory letter from Captain C. C. Cook, late captain of the United States Volunteers, Bellevue, Ohio: Bellevue, O., July 18, 1895. His Excellency, Governor of Virginia, Richmond, Va.:

Sir—I am sending you to-day under separate cover the records of the last five battalions of the Ninety-seventh Regiment, Virginia State troops, which was captured by a detachment of the Thirty-third Regiment, Ohio State Guard, under command of Captain Hiram Peck, in 1865. The flag was in Captain Peck's possession until his death, which occurred in February, when, by his request, it was sent to me.

Believing the time has come when all of the flags and relics of the last Civil War should be returned to the States they originally came from, I take pleasure in returning this flag to you to be placed in the archives of the State to show the rest of the relics of the late war. The card accompanying the flag gives its full history. It is in rather glum condition, but, enough remains to show where it belongs. Flag will follow by next mail.

When the flag arrives, it will be turned over to the Confederate Memorial Literary Society.

MORE CONVICTS ESCAPE.

Two From the Southwest Leave the State Farm.

Two convicts escaped from the State farm last Sunday, and they are still at large. They were "John" and "Tom" White men and both from Southwest Virginia.

One of the men is C. E. Mumpower, a former fireman on the Norfolk and Western Railroad, who was convicted in 1901 of grand larceny and given one year in the penitentiary. The other was James M. Barker, Jr., of Scott county. He was sent down for seven years for murder in the second degree. Barker had served nearly two years of his sentence and had a good prison record. The men both left their clothes and took some clothing belonging to guards and others.

As soon as the men were missed, diligent search was made for them, but up to last night nothing whatever had been heard of their probable whereabouts.

It had been months since there had been any escapes from the State farm.

Demand Equals Receipts.

Cary Street market reported a dull day yesterday. The excessive heat makes a gloomy outlook for business, as so many people are seeking the cool resorts of the country and seashore.

The receipts about equal the demand. Peaches are in heavy demand and selling low. The supply of chicken chickens about equals the demand, but there is practically no change in prices in anything.
